

Humorous Department

What it Meant to Him.—A North Carolina negro went to Delaware to accept work in a munitions plant. He was to get three or four times what he received for his labor at home. Upon arriving at the office of the powder factory he was given a card for the "T. N. T. division." He asked a white acquaintance where the card said for him to go.

"Go!" exclaimed the white man, "you had better be coming back from there. Do you know what T. N. T. stands for?"

"No, sir, boss, I've come from North Carolina, an' dis bizness is new to me," said the negro. "I des come to make de money; dat's all."

"Well, T. N. T. means Tri-Nitro-Toluol, the most dangerous explosive in the world. It goes off if you look right hard at it. Something like a thousand negroes have been killed in that division. I wouldn't work in there for $100 a minute. That place is called the Devil's House."

"Say, boss, what did you say T. N. T. spells?" asked the negro.

"Tri-Nitro-Toluol," answered the white man.

"Dat may be what it means to you an' de other white folks 'bout here," declared the Tar Heel darkey, "but dat ain't what it means to me; it means, 'Travel, Nigger, Travel.'"

"H. E. C. Bryant, in Charlotte Observer."

Not for Strangers.—An American was touring Ireland, and, stopping at a wretched inn, he said to the young attendant, rubbing his hands:

"Aha, young man, I'm as hungry as a bear. Grill me at once one of your famous Irish steaks, juicy and tender and two inches thick—with fried potatoes and onions."

The lad stared at the traveler. Then he clumped out. On his return the man asked:

"Well, steak coming on all right?"

"Bedad, sorr," said the boy, "father says that if he had a steak like that in the house he'd eat it himself, so he would!"—Washington Star.

Answered.—Among the answers to questions at a school examination appeared the following:

"Gross ignorance is 141 times as bad as just ordinary ignorance."

"Anchorite is an old-fashioned hermit sort of fellow who has anchored himself to one place."

"The liver is an internal organ."

"Vacuum is nothing but the air sucked out of it put up in a pickle bottle—it is very hard to get."—Christian Register.

20 The members of a certain local exemption board shrugged their shoulders cynically when a young man appeared and asked for exemption on the ground of physical disability.

"Fell down on the ice and hurt yourself, I suppose," one of them suggested.

"No," said the candidate, flushing, "I lost one leg at the battle of the Somme."

Then there was a large silence.—Washington Post.

Lesser of the Evils.—Lord Rosebery once mentioned to Dr. Creighton that there were times when he could not sleep. The bishop remarked:

"Dispenstion with sleep, my lord, is a very bad thing. I never suffer from sleeplessness, for whenever I feel weary I begin to read a sermon, and am off in a very few seconds."

"Ah, my lord," replied Lord Rosebery, "of two evils I will choose the least. Much rather would I go without sleep than read a sermon."—The Gem.

Appearances Deceptive.—The New England aunt of a little girl in New York was much impressed by the kid's appetite.

"Child," said she, "you eat a great deal for a little girl of four."

"Auntie," said the child gravely, "I ain't so little on the inside."—Boston Transcript.

21 "I say, doctor, did you ever doctor another doctor?"

"Oh, yes."

"Well, tell me this. Does a doctor doctor a doctor the way the doctor doctor wants to be doctor, or does the doctor doctor the doctoring doctor the other doctor in his own way?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Coming to the Kaiser.—Director General of Shipping Schwab, speaking before Detroit shipbuilders, said today: "I said they were building ships faster than U-boats can sink them."

"The Kaiser," he added, "is one for the damndest licking any one ever got."

Food For Thought.—She—What an atrocious necktie! I wouldn't trust you to select anything; you have so little taste.

He (chucklingly)—You forgot that I selected you, my dear.

She—You think you did, but you didn't really.—Boston Transcript.

The Demonized Dime.—"What can I get for a dime?" asked a seedy stranger as he took a seat in the rapid fire restaurant.

"A pair of transparent smelts, or, if you'd rather have it, one pint to bean in its natural foliage," laughingly replied Claudine, the waitress.—Luck.

Right Next.—20—I want to enroll in the Tenth regiment.

Recruiting Officer—Why that regiment?

20—I want to be near a friend of mine. He's in the Eleventh.—Orange Peel.

21 Minister—"I made seven hearts happy today."

Parishoner—"How was that?"

Parishoner—"Married three couples."

Parishoner—"That makes six."

Minister—"Well, you don't think I did it for nothing?"—Puck.

A Case of Heredity.—"No one understands me."

"That's not to be wondered at, girlie. Your mother was a telephone girl before she married, and your father was a train announcer."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

22 The new teacher, addressing the children, said: "Now, my little boys and girls, I want you to be very still—so that you can hear a pin drop."

They were all silent for a moment, when one cried out at the top of her voice, "Let her drop!"—Puck.

23 Walker—"What a stunning car Guy Wise drives! Is it his?"

Talker—"Well, his wife bought it. She has the money, you know."

Walker—"Ah, his mother-in-law."—Orange Peel.

The College is located in Oconee County at the foot of the Blue Ridge Mountains, on the home-stand of John C. Calhoun, and later of his son-in-law, Thos. G. Clemson. The College is over 800 feet above the sea level, and the climate is healthful and invigorating. Temptations to dissipate or to spend money foolishly are reduced to a minimum.

The students are under strict military government and every effort is made to train up young men who will reflect credit on the college and on the State.

RELIGIOUS INFLUENCES

The College contributes to the salary of four resident ministers, who conduct divine services and do pastoral work among the cadets in barracks. There is a flourishing Sunday School and Y. M. C. A. with two salaried Secretaries. A $75,000 Y. M. C. A. building was completed January, 1916.

EDUCATION A PATRIOTIC DUTY

In these war times every technically trained man is a national asset. The Colleges as well as other agencies, have a real contribution to make towards the winning of the war. The special interests of institutions must be subordinated to the one purpose now before the nation.

President Wilson has declared that it is the patriotic duty of young men under twenty-one years of age to seek a technical education and if already in College, to continue and complete their education.

A sufficient number of technically trained men is so essential that the War Department has made the following provisions to encourage college students arriving at draft age before graduation to continue and complete their courses. Immediately upon graduation, such students enter the service in their special lines.

1. Qualified Engineering Students may enlist in the Engineering Enlisted Reserve Corps and be placed on the inactive list until graduation. At graduation they will have an opportunity to enter an Engineer Officers' Training Camp to try for a Commission, or they enter the Engineers' Corps as a private.

2. Qualified Engineering Students may enlist in the Naval Reserve, and on graduation may enter the U. S. Navy Steam Engineering School and train for Ensign's Commissions. (Students in the Naval Reserve will likely not be eligible for membership in the R. O. T. C.)

3. Qualified Agricultural Students in the Senior Class may enlist in the Quartermaster's Reserve Corps to be called to active duty in that branch of the service after graduation.

The Secretary of War has distinctly stated that young men under draft age who have entered upon a technical college education can render the nation the greatest service by being educated first and serving afterwards. Young men sixteen or seventeen years of age can graduate by the time they reach the draft age and be prepared for maximum usefulness in the military establishment.

Engineers and technicians cannot be made over night, and our Government will be seriously embarrassed if young men refuse to begin now the training necessary to keep up the supply of such men both for the needs of the army and for carrying out the war program at home.

After the war the greatest opportunity in history will be presented to men trained in Agriculture, Engineering and other technical lines. If the United States is to be a leader in the reconstruction of the world, she must have men trained for the task.

MILITARY TRAINING

Clemson College is rated by the War Department as a "Military College." All students are required to wear the uniform and are under military discipline at all times. Military instruction is supervised by regular army officers.

Clemson College has over 800 men in the service, many of them holding high rank. When war was declared, fifty-one of the class of 1917 went to the first officers' training camp, and forty-seven of these won commissions. Since then, the military instruction has been made even more efficient. No patriotic young man can afford to miss the opportunity of combining with a technical education thorough military training.

Clemson College is a member of the Senior Division of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps. All Freshmen, Sophomores and Short Course students are required to take the Basic Course of three hours military instruction per week. Juniors and Seniors may enter the Advanced Course if physically and otherwise qualified, and if admitted, are required to take additional military instruction.

All students in the basic and Advanced Course receive from the government $14.00 on their uniforms, and students in the Advanced Course $9.00 per month in addition for subsistence.

While no obligation rests upon the graduate of the Advanced Course, completion of it gives distinct military advantages and special military opportunities. Membership in the advanced course amounts practically to a two year scholarship furnished by the Federal Government.
